Workplace Violence Prevention: Are you Prepared?

Are active shooter events on the rise? Is my organization prepared to deal with violence in the workplace? This presentation will look at the latest information on violence in the workplace; steps to design, implement and manage a workplace violence prevention program; problematic behaviors to look for and other issues to consider so you can be safer at work.

About the Presenter

WAYNE MAXEY, CPP, CTM is a twenty-six-year law enforcement veteran. He is a seasoned threat assessment professional who has evaluated, investigated and managed hundreds of cases of stalking, threats and incidences of workplace violence.

Before his retirement in 2010, he served as the commander of the Special Operations Division of the San Diego County District Attorney's Office where he developed, implemented and managed the policy and program to identify, assess and manage threats made to the district attorney and employees of the district attorney's office. He has investigated, supervised and managed cases involving political corruption; public official misconduct; officer involved shootings; internal affairs; and background investigations.

Wayne has instructed and lectured as an expert on the topics of stalking, threat assessment, and workplace violence throughout the U.S. and at training venues for New Scotland Yard in the United Kingdom.

This meeting qualifies for one point toward recertification in the IPMA-SCP credential.
